OBJECTIVES OF SMALL GROUP COMMUNICATION

Groups are part of every facet of our lives: family, school, work, and community. Learning the types, stages of formation, dynamics, leadership styles, conflict resolution, theories, problem solving, and techniques for evaluating groups will improve personal communication skills.

REQUIRED TEXT: Adams, Katherine and Galanes, Gloria J. (2012). Communicating in groups, Eighth Edition. Boston: McGraw-Hill.

COURSE EVALUATIONS:

Attendance	100
Chapter Quizzes	100
Participation in Class Activities	200
Group Panel Presentation	100
Group Critique of Panel	100
Breakfast Club paper	100
Group Service Project	300

COURSE EXPECTATIONS

1. Attendance is necessary in a skill-building oriented course. Much of the class time will be spent in group work. There is a responsibility to the group as well as to the class that all work is accomplished even if an absence is excused. Only THREE absences for whatever reason will be allowed (Dial Center policy). The attendance grade of 100 points will be reduced by twenty points for each absence beyond the three. Athletic, medical or UF activity absences will only be excused with documentation. There will be no make-ups for missed presentations. YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR SIGNING YOUR NAME ON THE ATTENDANCE SHEET. Arriving to class late or leaving early will result in the loss of points at the professor's discretion.
2. The emphasis of the course is on small groups doing projects that will build skills for working with small groups in your future. Reading the text and other assigned readings are also expected and quizzes will cover the material. Some text chapters might be combined and some quizzes might be completed in groups.

3. All assignments are expected on the due date.
4. Students are expected to dress appropriately (no shorts, jeans, T-shirts, tank tops, hats) on presentation days.
5. Written papers must be word processed. All work must be the student's original work and sources always indicated.
6. Cell phones and laptops (permission needed if using for class work) are expected to be turned off before entering classroom.
7. Everyone should succeed in this course. You will get to know your classmates and expect to have fun participating in the activities.
